The first link Add a new entry works a like normal new entry procedure. As an admin you can make new entries even when the entry form is closed.

The second link Have a list of the entries acts in the same manner than the correspondent link in the header section. This list is much wider than the list offered to the public audience.

The third link Change/Delete acts likewise its correspondent link in the header section. When running Change/Delete as admin will give you access to every row of entries despite who has made them.

The fourth link Export entries to Excel is something new. You can upload all data from the system by clickin this. It supports excel-xls format. It has been successfully used by Excel 2003, Excel 2007 and Open Office. The next short example is done with Open Office.

I'll press the fourth link Export entries to Excel and I'll get a pop-up whether I want to save the file or open it with some software. I'd decide to open it by Open Offices Calc program.
